NORWAY LEADER BARES CHARGES

By JANE VOILES
Have you seen that book that is a joy from cover to cover, Ruth Finley's "Lady of Godeys"? We are apt to think of Godey's Lady Book as containing only those delicately colored plates of feminine fashion that are so much sought after today but Godey's contained articles on cooking, gardening, home decoration and some of them, surprisingly enough, are quite modern. Sarah Joseph Hale who was "editress" of Godey's for forty years and whose story Miss Finley tells with so much allure, wielded great power in her day. Whatever Godey's advocated was never questioned for a moment but was accepted as gospel truth by the 150,000 subscribers. When Sarah Hale, a young widow with five children, took over the job of editing Godey's, she was a Victorian of Victorians about the ideals of genteel womanhood but at the same time she was all for helping women. She seized upon every invention that might lessen their work: the sewing machine, the rotary egg beater, and the double-boiler were first introduced to the home through Sarah Hale's efforts.

Mrs. Hale did not scorn beauty aids. Although neither Elizabeth Arden nor Helena Rubenstein would approve of her "wrinkle eradicator" who knows but it may have been responsible for her fine skin. The eradicator consisted of strips of brown paper, the kind that butchers used thirty years ago, dipped in vinegar. Mrs. Hale had her own formula for a hand lotion which she used faithfully. Among its ingredients were coconut oil and rose water. You might be interested to know that Mrs. Hale was the first to use the word "lingerie," a handy term was needed to cover the bulky impedimenta known as the under wardrobe.

The good works we owe to this distinguished woman are legion. She was responsible for the making of Thanksgiving Day into a national holiday; she was one of the first to work for public playgrounds for children and to advocate medical missionaries for foreign countries. Last but not least, it has been proven conclusively that Sarah Hale was the author of those immortal stanzas "Mary Had a Little Lamb." Looking over the fiction in Godey's we laugh at it today as so much silly nonsense but we mustn't forget that such giants as Poe, Longfellow, Irving and Bryant were contributors to Godey's. "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "Woodman, Spare That Tree," were first published in this magazine.

Miss Finley leaves an unforgettable portrait of this warm-hearted liberal-handed woman who lived to the age of ninety. One likes to remember her as the woman who signed her letters "truly your friend." You will not regret one minute of the time you spend on "Lady of Godey's."

Julia Cooley Altroch of Berkeley who is probably familiar to all as the author of "Snow Covered Wagons," a story of the Donner Party, has a new book out, a story of adventure called "Wolves Against the Moon." It is a novel of French pioneer life around the Great Lakes and the early American settlements of Detroit and Chicago. Mrs. Altroch says that "most of the events depicted are real, most of the characters are real even to the incredibly named Captain of a Great Lakes vessel, Job Fish."

The novel of Wales "How Green Was My Valley," by Richard Llewellyn that has displaced "Grapes of Wrath," and "Kitty Foyle," on the best seller list has been bought and will be produced as a motion picture by Twentieth Century Fox.

We are delighted that our favorite "Mr. Skeffington," by Elizabeth Arden is heading the best seller list in the West.

If arm chair travel is still in season.

Claims Troops Landed At Narvik From Whaler Which Flew Stars And Stripes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, (U.P.)—C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, says that Norway now has irrefutable proof that Germany long planned its invasion and that, while Germany was making its plans, the German minister was expressing to the Norwegian government his sympathy for Norway and his eagerness to help her remain neutral.

Hambro charged that a big German whaler which entered Narvik harbor the night before the invasion, crowded with hidden German troops and war materials, flew the American flag and had American nationality marks painted on it.

He disclosed that Norway intended to issue a diplomatic white book to show that Germany planned its invasion a month in advance.

May 7th Results Will Be "Barometer" On Pensions, Other Issues

SACRAMENTO, (U.P.)—Only seven days remained today until California voters elect delegations to the national political conventions and take a "straw vote" on several important issues.

The winner among the four democratic delegations is the all-important issue of the May 7 presidential primary. But the vote also will be a barometer of strength for the ham and eggs pension group, the Ellis Patterson left-wing forces, and the third-term bloc.

The final week of the campaign will be a busy one. Lieutenant Governor Patterson came to the San Francisco bay area on behalf of his left-wing delegation.

Gov. Culbert Olson returned to Sacramento over the weekend from a 10-day tour of southern California.

Garner headquarters announced the first of several statewide radio talks will be given tomorrow night by District Attorney Tolson McGettigan of Sonoma County, a Garner delegate.

Unemployment insurance amounting to $45,795 went to eligible unemployed workers in the Placerville area during March, 1940, according to an announcement made today by Ford Park, manager of the Placerville office of the State Department of Employment.

Park stated that 2,918 checks were written for this area representing 0.7 per cent of the state total. March payments increased $2,137 over February of 1940, and exceeded the March total last year by $20,908, Manager Park declared.

Calif. Counties Will Have Theme Pylon at '40 Fair

Ground has been broken for the towering theme pylon to be located in the California Counties' Plaza de la Fiesta on Treasure Island and which will be completed when the 1940 Exposition opens on May 25. Assisting California Commissioners Gordon F. Irvine, left, and J. C. Berendsen, right, in the ground-breaking ceremonies is pretty Miss Jill Turner, who had just completed her tryout for one of the big Exposition shows. The pylon will be 60 feet high and will have multi-tiered fountains and pools lighted by all the colors of the rainbow in an ever-changing pattern.

CAMINO SCHOOL DISTRICT'S TAX DELINQUENCY .7 OF 1 PCT.

Placerville Payments Less Than Two Per Cent Delinquent And Same Record Is Maintained In Diamond Springs, Collector Reveals

The county-wide delinquency on taxes for the year is only three per cent, it was noted Monday morning by Tax Collector W. F. Truscott.

"White spots" on the tax collection map are Pigeon Creek and Wildwood districts, which have no delinquency. Carson Creek district was formerly reported in this class, but a re-check of the records indicates a delinquency of about one per cent in that district.

Camino School district has a delinquency of only seven-tenths of one per cent, the Tax Collector revealed, and for Placerville school district, the delinquency is one and eight-tenths per cent.

Diamond Springs School district is in about the same class, with a delinquency of slightly in excess of one per cent.

"This does not mean that these are the best showings in tax collections by school districts," Mr. Truscott pointed out. "These are the reports on some of the districts that I have tallied up, just as a matter of interest. Several other districts of the county would show up about as well, because our entire county delinquency is only three per cent."

Father Of Camino Lady Succumbs At Yuba City

Of three games played in the league Sunday, all went to extra innings. It took Folsom eleven frames to defeat Auburn 1 to 0 and retain undefeated league leadership, while the Lincoln-Colfax contest went thirteen innings before Lincoln won, 4 to 3. That's baseball in any man's league.

Reggie Jackson was well-supported by the Bartlets in the field as well as at bat and the Barts gathered sixteen hits as compared with but nine for Grass Valley.

Louis Neil had thirteen putouts at first base and Clark had eight assists at shortstop, while Begovich had eight putouts and two assists at the plate. Four of the putouts were strikeouts.

Drama Group To End Rehearsals

Cast For Offering To Be Given Thursday Shows Excellent Progress

Only a dress rehearsal remains for members of the Shakespeare drama section, who will present "Here Comes the Prince," their second drama offering of the season, at the Shakespeare clubhouse on Thursday night, May 2.

The cast is reported as, having made excellent progress in its rehearsals for the presentation and the dress rehearsal is expected to move with all the spontaneity of an actual presentation.

It is estimated that there are, over all, enough laughs, hilariously funny situations, excitement, and romance to satisfy the most critical ones. For, when Terry isn't upsetting Carol's carefully laid plans, the Professor becomes a disturbing factor or Winks, a devil with the ladies, adds his bit to the merriment of the play. Then there is that adorable Granny who in her sly way rules her family with a firm hand and seems to make them like it.

113 NIMRODS AT DINNER

Barrett, President; McNie, Vice-President; Ripley, Secretary For New Year

The annual dinner of the Rod and Gun Club, at Hotel Raffles on Friday evening, had an attendance of 113 sportsmen from various sections of the county and from Sacramento.

Leo Barrett was named president for the new year, Archie McNie, of Camino, vice-president, and Wallace M. Ripley, secretary.

Other directors of the club are Don Goodrich, Clarence Collins, Rolland Gust, Walter Drysdale, Dr. Lester Rantz, John Winkelman, William Immer and A. H. Murray.

A feature of the entertainment program was the showing of a motion picture of a hunting trip in British Columbia by Jack Hilbert and Steve Foster, of Sacramento. The two made the trip and the pictures were taken by them. The films had been shown at the club's dinner a year ago when the attendance was so limited that it was felt it would be worth while to invite the gentlemen to show the pictures again. The enthusiasm with which they were received at the meeting Friday night indicated that the re-showing was appreciated by the membership.

The club had as speakers Inspector Chappell, of the Sacramento district patrol of the fish and game department; and Bryan Curtis, fish and game department biologist. Much interest was evidenced by the nimrods in the talks of the two officers and at the close of their remarks there was a jointly conducted "question box" into which the club members entered thoroughly.

The dinner was an especially ordered and prepared sea food banquet. Various stunts were offered as a part of the entertainment program, and a large assortment of prizes was distributed.

Home-Made Cakes To Be Prizes For Whist

Members of Marguerite Parlor No. 12, N. D. G. W., are participating actively in preparations for their whist part at the Masonic hall tonight, by baking home-made cakes which will feature the list of premiums to be awarded to the most skillful players.

The whist party is an annual event of Marguerite Parlor and the proceeds will go to the support of the parlor's work in behalf of homeless children.

The event has been well advertised among whist players of the county and all preparations, coupled with the worthy purpose for which it is arranged, point to a large attendance.

ENTERS FINALS AT SAN JOSE

Placerville Youth Is Best In Contests For No. California, Nevada

Robert Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodward, of Placerville, won the Lions student speaker championship for Northern California and Nevada at Redding Saturday evening, competing against five other regional winners.

He is thus qualified to compete at the Lions district convention at San Jose in June against two other regional winners from the southern part of the state, for district honors.

The victory at Redding Saturday evening was the third for young Woodward in as many recent competitions in the Lions student speaker contest.

He won the right to represent the Placerville Club in competition before the Placerville Lions. Then he went to Roseville, where he won in a competition with other youths, similarly chosen by other clubs of the vicinity, the right to compete for the Northern California and Nevada Championships at Redding.

All of the student speakers had as their topic, "Over Here and Over There," and were at liberty to develop the subject according to their own preference, in keeping with the general patriotic theme.

Judges in the contest Saturday night, for which Lion James R. Johnson was chairman, were Chief Justice Taber, of the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada, and (Continued on Page Four)

Peter Conmy To Visit Tuesday

Grand Historian For Native Sons To Speak Four Times In City

Peter Conmy, grand historian for the Native Sons of the Golden West, will make another attempt to visit in Placerville on Tuesday.

Mr. Conmy was enroute to the community from the Bay District several weeks ago when high water barred his way at Vacaville. This time, it is hoped by both Mr. Conmy and those in Placerville at whose invitation he is coming here, there will be nothing to interfere with his scheduled visit.

Mr. Conmy will make four addresses during his visit in the community. He will speak before Placerville Lions at their luncheon at Hotel Raffles. Early in the afternoon he will address the high school student body, and later in the day he will speak at Placerville Grammar School.

In the evening, Mr. Conmy will meet with Placerville Parlor No. 9, N. S. G. W., and will, presumably, address the parlor relative to matters of California history.

Dinner Party Observes Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Anderson were hosts Sunday afternoon at a dinner party at Locust Inn, Shingle Springs, in remembrance of their second wedding anniversary. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barker, Mrs. Verna Brame, Mrs. Gladys Truscott, R. S. Ramsey and William Kervin.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Phelps and son Richard of Oakland were here over the weekend visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Curtis. Mr. Phelps is a Bishop in the Latter Day Saint's Church in the bay city and while here on Sunday he spoke briefly at the Placerville Sunday School.

Where Do You Vote?

Last week, sample ballots for the May 7th presidential primary election were mailed to qualified electors by the County Clerk and each envelope contained a card noting the date of the election and the hours the polls will be open and, what is more important—the location of the polling place in the voter's precinct.

These cards should be saved for reference on election day and the probability of much confusion will be avoided by those who follow this suggestion.

Since the last election, there has been a re-arrangement of election precincts in the county and in a number of instances voters will find that the location of their polling place has been changed.

Do not destroy the card. Save it for reference.

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK (U)—New York State got its first check from pari-mutuel racing — a certified bit of papyrus worth $166,471.25 — and plans to honor the horse immediately got under way.

The check, representing the state cut in the first week of racing at Jamaica, furnished a rousing hint as to what a debt of gratitude New York will owe the horse before the racing season ends. With more than thirty weeks of racing on the calendar the state cannot miss being enriched by six or seven million dollars.

This ain't hay, even if it does come from the barns, so to speak, and so sensitive and appreciative persons already are thinking of ways and means to honor the thoroughbred for his generosity.

I'd like to offer a few suggestions. The capital would be transferred from Albany to some place like Saratoga at once. The present building at Albany could be turned into an old horses' home open to any four legged philanthropist when his racing days come to an end.

The title of governor would be abandoned and "presiding steward" adopted for the chief executive. And at all state functions his dress would consist of a silk blouse (the color or colors to be chosen and registered by the political party he represented), and riding breeches. When attempting to push through a bit of legislation the governor would be allowed to carry a whip and spurs as extra equipment. And a governor during his first term, would be given an apprentice allowance.

The justice of the supreme court would be known as the pa-

"I'm sorry," said Kirby. "Look here, there's no sense in quarreling about this. Let's keep our heads."

He turned to Harding. "Do you want the letter made public yet, Emery?"

"No," said Harding. "I do not."

Kirby looked at Castian and shrugged.

"Well, if that's how you feel, Emery..." Castian grumbled. "That's how I feel," Harding said nervously.

"It's MY letter and Kirby says it has nothing to do with this. Dr. Straater, will you call the Portland police?"

"I" said Kirby, "am going down to the beach again."

HE STALKED out of the library, went out the front door, and crossed the lawn to the beach. Carefully, he avoided making new footprints in the sand. He followed the path that had been trod before.

Suddenly some one called to him from the lawn. He turned and waited. Frank Bitherbee caught up with him.

"Mr. Harding told me you had come down here. He thought I'd better come along."

"Doesn't he trust me?" Kirby asked, smiling faintly.

Bitherbee laughed. "Implicitly! But he was worried about your safety. He wanted me to act as a strong-arm man. I say, Mr. Kirby, what the devil's wrong up there? What happened? When I came back to the library, they were all standing around looking scared."

"Santrey was murdered," Kirby said, as they reached the beached rowboat, which was close to the depression in the sand where Santrey's body had lain.

"Murdered!" said Bitherbee. "But that's preposterous! Santrey was an old duck who wouldn't have hurt a fly. Besides... well, there's no one on this island other than our party. And we have no murderers amongst us!" He looked sharply at Kirby. "You're not joking?"

"Hardly! But what you say may be true. It isn't likely that there is a murderer amongst us. But this island—how large is it?"

"Oh, about three miles around."

"You see—big enough to hold some one else who might have come over from the mainland to do away with Santrey."

"But in that case—"

"IN THAT case, we may never know who did it," Kirby smiled. "No harm in trying to find out, though. Look here." He squatted on his heels and let his finger play over some footprints visible in the moonlight on the other side of the rowboat. "These steps weren't made by our party before. We came from the house. These came from up the cove, around the shore line. Castian was the only one of us who came that way. And he didn't go back. These steps come from the cove and go back towards it again."

"Let's see," said Bitherbee. "I'll light a match."

He did so. Clearly now, in the uncertain glare of the flame, they could see the footprints in the sand. The right foot dug much deeper than the left. In fact, the left was almost indiscernible, the mere tip of the toe being visible.

"Strange," Kirby muttered.

"You know what that looks like?" Bitherbee hazarded, in his clear young voice. "It looks as though a lame man had made them."

"A lame man!" Kirby said. "Exactly! That's it!"

His mind flashed back to the library—to the grim group that had stood around the corpse on the sofa...

Dr. Herman Toler was a lame man.

control judge and his fellow justices as clerks of the course.

All state senators would be numbered and entrance into the legislative halls (or stalls) would be made through the Puett starting gate. Fractious legislators who oppose measures aimed to aid the public would be led to the outside and the twitch put on them.

The state song would be changed to "Boots and Saddles" and the blossom of the horse radish adopted as the state flower.

The coat of arms would undergo a change, too. A heraldic expert could devise an appropriate shield and crest such as a batch of torn up $2 mutual tickets rampant on a tote board, with couchant horse-players.

The present state motto would give way to "Hoss Players Never Die Broke," or "E Pluribus Across the Board," or, "In Touts We Trust."

That part of the No. 1 Highway that runs through the state would be renamed "The Stretch" and all official distances would be measured in furlongs.

If all these things were done in honor of the horse it would not be too much. He is really developing into a far bearing mint for the state. Last year the state's total take from the tracks was just a shade over $600,000. This year the horse will turn in more than that in the first month.

GOLD DREDGING ON RICH FARM LANDS CONDEMNED BY STATE BOARD OF FORESTRY; REGULATORY ACTION FAVORED BY LOS ANGELES

SACRAMENTO—Gold dredging operations which destroy rich agricultural lands in California were condemned Thursday before the state board of forestry as the group launched a three-day meeting on a 1940-41 fire control program.

M. V. Hartranft, Tujunga, Los Angeles county member, declared the board should take a stand on the dredge damage question and announced he will propose a resolution in which the group would join other agencies, public and private, seeking control over this type of mining operation.

"In the Chico (Butte county) area," Hartranft said, "I have seen hundreds of acres of the richest soil in the state destroyed by these dredgers. I think this board should swing in behind many Chico organizations condemning the practice."

Richard Sachse, state director of natural resources, said:

"If I had the power, I believe I would hesitate a long time before I would permit the destruction of agricultural lands so more gold could be obtained."

"The United States already has three-fourths of the world's gold, and we are putting it back in the ground again."

Sachse disclosed Governor Culbert L. Olson is considering the former's request to include a forthcoming special legislative call on storm damage and levee repairs a proposal of the natural resources department for an $883,608.50 appropriation to carry on fire control work during the next 14 months.

FOLSOM FUGITIVE ACCUSED IN THORNTON BEACH MURDERS

REDWOOD CITY, (U)—After a long investigation, Ray Thompson, fugitive from a Folsom prison road camp, was accused of murder today in the deaths of Ray Lagomarsino and Lea Tyme, fellow fugitives found slain on Thornton Beach last Nov. 2.

Sheriff J. J. McGrath, who filed the murder complaint, said it was based on admissions by Thompson that he had slain Tyme after the latter had killed Lagomarsino, a notorious Colma "Bad Boy."

Previously Thompson had insisted Tyme and Lagomarsino had killed each other in a duel and that his only part in it was removal of the bodies from Halfmoon Bay, where the three were hiding after their escape, to the beach where the bodies were found.

ASTHMA SUFFERERS ARE PROMISED RELIEF BY "TIME BOMB"

SAN FRANCISCO, (U)—The California Medical Association today announced discovery of a medical

"time bomb" designed to provide overnight relief for asthma sufferers.

The discovery was credited to Dr. Jack Cohn of San Francisco and was described in the Association's official journal.

Cohn's "bomb" contains ephedrine, a chemical for relief of asthma, and phenobarbital, a sleep-inducing agent. It is covered with a wax which dissolves after it has been in the body of the sufferer three or four hours.

In the treatment, a patient is given an ordinary capsule which dissolves immediately and the new "time bomb" capsule. The combination, it was explained, allows afflicted persons to sleep comfortably through the night.

In former treatment asthma patients took a capsule before going to bed. Its effect wore off in a few hours and left them sleepless and congested. Even administration of another pill failed to restore them to sleep.

Under Cohn's treatment, the "time bomb" takes effect just before the period of awakening and the patient sleeps undisturbed through the night.

BARTENDER TO ASK NEW TRIAL ON CHARGE BASED ON FATAL CRASH

Notice of intention to seek a new trial has been given in Placer County by counsel for Louis Milani, Roseville bartender, found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of Kenneth Sisto, 18, by a jury in the superior court.

Judge Raymond McIntosh of Sierra County ordered Milani released on $1,000 bail until he can consider the motion.

Milani was found guilty in the first trial by a jury that deliberated two hours after the trial of four days.

Sisto, who purchased the liquor from Milani, later drove a car on the state highway that crashed with one containing Morris Shinkle, 20, of Greenwood, El Dorado County, who suffered fatal injuries.

Sisto testified he drank the liquor sold him by Milani an hour and a half before the accident.

Olive scale was found recently in Stanislaus and Merced counties.

THE SPIRIT OF

by JOHN CLINTON

Like so many people I've always been able to take my opera or leave it alone. It wasn't what you'd call an obsession. If someone yelled "Carmen" real quick, I'd be more apt to think of a street car conductor than some sultry dame in a red dress singing on the stage in high C!

And then Union Oil Company started its broadcasts of "streamlined opera." (NBC Red Network at 7:30 o'clock, Monday nights, PST). And now I am an authority on music!

This Union Oil Program has the right idea. You don't have to sit through a lot of dull yodeling waiting for some tenor to crank out a familiar tune—one you can whistle on the way home!

Because in these "streamlined operas" they've cut all that stuff out. The action is all in English and you really get the story. By golly, it's pretty swell stuff.

Another thing that makes it good is the fact that they don't always have grand opera. In fact, many of the shows are Victor Herbert type things that you've whistled all your life—and musical comedies, too—like "No No Nanette."

So look, tonight at seven-thirty, sit down by the radio and tune in your nearest NBC Red Network station... get an ear full.

If you don't like it, then write me a letter and I'll personally cut it on the steps of the NBC Station in Hollywood! Remember, Union Oil Program—tonight—7:30 o'clock!

CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION CAN ASSIST CONTROL OF EROSION

Farmers need not suffer soil losses such as were caused by erosion during this spring's heavy rains, if they will use available measures under the Agricultural Conservation Program, according to George Volz, chairman of the El Dorado county agricultural conservation committee.

While cover crops have been used universally as a soil protective measure, there are other practices in the AAA conservation program especially designed to control erosion, he stated.

GARDEN ROSES and Celosia, one of a series of forty-eight flower arrangements illustrated by natural color photographs in the new book, "Flower Arranging—A Fascinating Hobby," by Laura Lee Burroughs.

ANY WOMAN CAN MAKE FASCINATING ARRANGEMENT OF FLOWERS, SAYS LAURA LEE BURROUGHS, EXPERT IN FIELD

In recent years the idea of flower arranging has become increasingly popular among women everywhere. Indeed, with many, this is now their favorite hobby. The possible combinations and arrangements are endless and the fun comes in the originality with which one's own thought and personality can be expressed.

Robert A. Hook, owner of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Placerville, states, "Undoubtedly this interest in flower arranging is responsible for the phenomenal popularity of a book called 'Flower Arranging—A Fascinating Hobby,' recently published, and being distributed by The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Georgia."

The book is written in a light and fascinating vein by Laura Lee Burroughs, one of the recognized experts in this field. Her ideas and suggestions are illustrated by 48 photographs of flower arrangements exquisitely photographed in full color. It is said that literally thousands of flowers "posed" for their pictures before the final groupings were selected.

At first glance you'd think the flower combinations are only for the experts, so strikingly beautiful are the arrangements. But Mr. Burroughs comments simply on each grouping in a way that is very easy to understand and it isn't long before you begin to see that the only limit to the pleasure and variety of expression in this hobby is your own imagination.

Mr. Hook said that an idea of the widespread popularity of flower arranging as a hobby may be realized from the fact that four hundred thousand copies of the book already have been distributed. If you are interested in getting a copy for yourself, you can secure one simply by writing. The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Georgia, enclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin to help cover the cost of handling and mailing each book ordered.

Bob Woodward Wins Again

the Superior Court Judges of Sierraville and Shasta Counties.

Woodward was accompanied to Redding by City Clerk Harold Duden. Lions from Placerville who attended the Saturday and Sunday meeting were Lion President Louis Armes, Lion Secretary Arthur Mart, and Lion Past District Governor and Mrs. Thomas Maul.

In the business meeting, the Lions endorsed Bob Jefford for district governor, subject to the action of the San Jose convention. Lion Jefford is a member of the Grass Valley Lions. The meeting also selected Carson City, Nevada, for the meeting next Spring.

The convention delegates, numbering about three hundred, had a varied entertainment program prepared for them, a high-light being the opportunity to visit Shasta Dam, where a convention luncheon was held on Sunday.

STUDENTS HONOR MEMORY OF DEPARTED COMRADE BY ATTENDING A DINNER DANCE FINANCED BY LATE YOUTH'S FATHER

BOONEVILLE, Mo., (UP)—Because a youthful comrade died, 84 Kemper Military Academy cadets will stage the strangest memorial service ever held — a dinner-dance "to make Kemper history."

Company D, of which Cadet Jimmie Parker Jr. was a member, will honor his memory in Columbia tonight at one of the fanciest parties this area has ever seen.

Jimmie's father, James E. Parker, an oil man from Wichita Falls, Tex., will pay the bill. His son was killed during the spring holiday when his car ran off a Texas highway.

Parker came here a week ago to attend solemn military memorial services for his son. Later he had dinner with Cadet Lieutenant Ralph Kamman and Cadet Captain Barnhart, members of Jimmie's company.

"I'd like to do something for Jimmie's friends," he told them. "Something that Jimmie would like. I'd like to throw a party."

Kamman and Barnhart tried to dissuade him, though they had succeeded. But when Parker checked out of the Booneville Hotel, he left an envelope for Kamman. It was a check for $420, five dollars each for a Company D party.

So, with unusual permission from the commandant, Company D will board buses this evening, drive to Columbia and there call for dates at Missouri University, Christian and Stephens Colleges. The cadets will take them to dinner at the Tiger Hotel and then dancing to the music of an orchestra hired and imported especially for the occasion.

Norway Charges German Coup

Narvik, Dr. M. A. Nolda, a world war submarine commander, of having been the chief German spy charged with preparations for the invasion. Further, he asserted, Nolda had been German consul at Le Havre when the liner Paris was destroyed by a mysterious fire. Hambro said that he personally had warned the Norwegian government to be most careful about permitting Nolda to serve as a German consular official in Norway.

By UNITED PRESS

The Allies fought back with increasing power today against the German military grip on central Norway.

The Scandinavian fighting fronts still were scattered after three weeks of war in the north but for the first time the British, French and Norwegian forces were blocking the German advance at important points and the German official news agency admitted that stubborn resistance had been encountered. Nevertheless, the fighting surged perilously close to the main Allied railroad line at Hjerikinn, toward which the Nazis were battling.

The British said they had sunk three more German supply ships (making a total of 31 transport and supply craft they claim to have sunk since the Norway campaign started.)

The German high command said two more British cruisers and 11 transports had been bombed in the Nazi aerial offensive to destroy Allied communication lines and the German press added up a total of 94 ships lost by the Allies since April 9.

The German military operations were on five main fronts where the Nazi forces, led by airplanes, had spread out in the rough shape of a huge hand gripping the southern and central parts of Norway.

WAR ANALYSIS

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

(UP. Cable Editor)

The Allies, under pressure from a disappointed public at home, may step up their offensive in Norway this week to a marked extent.

A gathering storm of criticism is perceptible in London, where the government may find itself in an embarrassing position as members of parliament clamor for more information and more action.

People are beginning to ask "Is this another Gallipoli?" referring to the costly and futile campaign at the Dardanelles in the world war.

AN EXPERT in flower arrangement, Laura Lee Burroughs has written a booklet on the subject.

THE BOOK MARK

son for you we recommend Agnes Rothery's charming book "Virginia, the New Dominion," illustrated by E. H. Suydam. It is one of those excellent all-round books that touches every phase of its subject. Colonial life is discussed and exemplified in the restoration of that massive old capital of Virginia, Williamsburg, a restoration made possible by the generosity of John Rockefeller, Jr. Plantation life is not entirely shorn of that rosy-colored glamor we have come to associate with it through the movies. Miss Rothery shows us the lives of the famous Virginia statesmen, Washington against the background of Mount Vernon, Thomas Jefferson against the background of Monticello. The present is not neglected as the author has much to say about the mountaineers of the Blue Ridge country and the Negroes of Virginia who comprise about one-fourth of the population.

The orchards that contain ten million apple trees, the fields that grow three hundred varieties of narcissi, tobacco road up to date and finally the evolution of that famous delicacy, Virginia ham pass in review. Miss Rothery finds the country and the people of Virginia to her liking. It is probable that she will convert many readers to her point of view.
